Personal development and the quality and integrity of character were the key notes as expounded by the 83rd class to graduate from Frank Maddock High School.

'Know Who You Are' was chosen as the theme by the 142 students -- the second largest class to graduate from the school. Valedictorian Arlene Lauer, speaking on behalf of her classmates, emphasized that she and her classmates are entering a new phase of their lives where friends and individualism will be moving to the forefront in terms of personal importance.

She cited new roles and relationships between students and teacher as contributing towards making this transition easier. Her explanation centred on the concept that teachers and students now enjoy relationships which allow for friendship and guidance as well as the teacher-student role.

Through this new relationship she thanked the teachers for expanding the horizons of the students. "You've taught us to never say 'I can't', I'll try," she said.

As the students grow and strive to attain goals the values learned from their teachers and parents will hold them in good stead.

These sentiments were acknowledged and echoed by all the speakers to address those assembled to honor the students. Greetings were given by Marvin Tkachuk, area superintendent on behalf of the County of Parkland; Jim Koehmstedt, chairman of the Roman Catholic Separate School Board; Drayton Valley Mayor Bob Mayhew extended greetings on behalf of the town and Don Brandenburg, chairman of the board of education, spoke on behalf of the board and presented honor awards.

Representing the Government of Canada was Joe Clark, M.P., who wished the students good luck in the "wide, exciting, wonderful world," and urged them to define it in their own terms.

In attendance to represent the Government of Alberta and present the Alberta Heritage and Savings Trust Fund Scholarships was Shirley Cripps, M.L.A. Prior to the presentation she congratulated the students and spoke of the need to be responsible towards yourself as an individual. "Be yourself," she said. "Make your own decisions."

This year's address to the graduating class was made by former teacher Tim Yaldmec, who has gone on to return to studies himself.

Principal Richard Woods departed from his traditional spoken address and sang his Charge to the Grads accompanied by Andre Boisvert.

Political forum proposed

By Jack Morrison

All election candidates will have an opportunity to explain their views on issues at a public forum sponsored by The Western Review being held in the Frank Maddock High School theatre Thursday, Oct. 6 at 7:00 p.m.

Each candidate for mayor, will be allowed seven minutes to speak while candidates for town council will receive five minutes. After each candidate has had a chance to speak questions will be entertained from the audience, said Stuart Adams, managing editor of The Western Review.

The question and answer period will be limited to one hour, he added.

At the start of the forum question cards will be distributed to the audience, said Chad Nichols, master of ceremonies for the forum. Each card must contain the question to be asked, the questioner's name and the person to whom it should be directed, he added.

Even though the question may be directed to a specific candidate, each candidate will be given the opportunity to respond, said Adams.

Each candidate will be allowed one minute to respond to the question, added Nichols.

"It is up to the master of ceremonies' discretion to request the questions be restated or disallowed due to the content of the question presented," said Adams.

The master of ceremonies will also determine whether or not questions dealing with issues already discussed will be allowed, he added.

Question cards from the audience will be picked up by runners and delivered to the master of ceremonies. Only one card from each person will be picked up at a time and only one question will be allowed on each card, said Adams.

Coffee and donuts will be served after the forum to allow personal contact with the candidates, he said.

Candidates examined for

Bob Mayhew

Alex Salfi

Claire Carefoot

Peter Kazoleas

Emile Lambert

Name missed

In the story regarding Drayton Valley nominees some of the names of the candidates were spelled wrong.

Bill Paniec, Peter Kazoleas and Howard Olsen are running for council.

Emile Lambert is also running for council. but was not mentioned in last week's story.

The Western Review regrets any inconvenience this may have caused.

Peter Jacobs was unavailable for comment at press time as well as a picture of Howard Olsen.

Bob Mayhew

Incumbent Mayor Bob Mayhew is not making any campaign promises except to continue on the extent of good, responsible business-like leadership.

Mayhew is running again for mayor because he feels his job is not finished.

"We made substantial progress in the last three years and yet there is further progress to be made," said Mayhew.

Mayhew would like to see the water system completed, the pool issue resolved and administration strengthened, he added.

"I feel I owe it to the people who supported me to continue on," he said.

Mayhew refused to complete the questionnaire, saying the issues are more complicated than a yes or no answer and he will expand on those issues at the forum to be held Oct. 6.

Alex Salfi

For Alex Salfi it is "hell" trying to work and campaign at the same time.

During his last three years as a town councillor he says he has on the average spent 20 to 30 hours a week on council business besides managing ICG Canadian Propane Ltd.

"As a mayor I think it (the amount of time spent on council business) would increase slightly," he said.

Salfi is adamant about wanting to keep the taxes at the current level and if possible attempting to lower them.

"Taxes could be held at par or possibly lowered by better management, planning and running the town like a business instead of a government," he said.

Salfi says he is in favor of a new indoor swimming pool and a multicultural centre but only if it would not increase the burden on the taxpayers.

Regarding the decision by council to limit voting on the pool issue to ratepayers, Salfi says "it is a big enough problem that everyone should be able to vote."

Some of the recreational and cultural services are adequate but a few like the swimming pool and the curling rink are not, he said.

The present council has been very negligent in not understanding the water situation, he charged.

"I've been on council for six years and the problem has been evident."

Council had sufficient notice and did not do proper planning, he said.

Claire Carefoot

Claire Carefoot has decided to get out of federal politics and into municipal politics.

Carefoot, co-owner and manager of Summerhill Real Estate Ltd., is the only female running for town council.

Carefoot will be resigning as president of the Yellowhead Progressive Conservative party. "I have decided to channel energy into the community instead of the country," she said.

Carefoot spent two years as a director, two years as vice-president and three years as president of the party.

"I know I can represent the people of Drayton Valley with common sense decisions," she said.

Some of the questions were very good, said Carefoot.

"However, I would find it extremely difficult to answer yes or no to any of these questions ... there are too many elements involved and I feel the questions are far too involved to even attempt a simple yes or no. If anyone would like to direct questions to me they can phone my office anytime and speak to me personally," she said.

Peter Kazoleas

Peter Kazoleas, co-owner of Three Knights Restaurant, feels his Greek attitude would be an asset to council.

Kazoleas defines the Greek attitude as helping people and giving of yourself.

Taxes are a major concern for Kazoleas.

If taxes can't be reduced then they should be used properly, he said.

Questionnaire

The Western Review has endeavored to expose all of the candidates and give some background, the reason why they are running and how they would handle some of the current issues.

Each candidate for mayor or town council had the opportunity to examine, answer and return a questionnaire stating how they felt about certain issues. Although only yes or no answers have been printed, each candidate was informed they would be able to explain why they answered yes or no on any of the questions they thought needed clarifying.

1. Are you satisfied with the town's long range planning?
2. Do you think town council should be involved in the day to day operations of the town?
3. Are you in favor of an indoor swimming pool?
4. Are you in favor of only ratepayers being able to vote on the pool issue?
5. Do you think volunteer boards and committees have been utilized effectively?
6. Are you in favor of a multicultural centre in Drayton Valley?
7. Has the previous council handled the water supply system situation effectively?
8. Are you in favor of forming a new county in the Drayton Valley area?
9. Do you think the recreation and cultural services are adequate?
10. Do you think the present taxes are equitable?
11. Should taxes be lowered?
12. Should taxes remain static?
13. Should taxes be raised?

Taxes should have to follow inflation and raises, he added.

"I would like to see the town run as perfectly as possible and human error in administration corrected," Kazoleas said.

Kazoleas feels council should have as much control as possible over administration without "tying their hands."

"We have to get out of the attitude where the government will pay for everything," he said.

Kazoleas says he would like to see council run the town like a business rather than a government.

Emile Lambert

Emile Lambert, owner of J&A Trucking Ltd., has decided to run for town council.

"I think the town has treated me pretty good so I thought I would put something back into it," he said.

Lambert has run the company since 1968 and says he has been successful in business. The town should be run like a business, he said, adding he feels he has experience in that area.

Lambert also has experience with politics. He spent four years on the separate school board, being a trustee for the first year and chairman for the following three.

Lambert feels he has good judgment and business experience and is not scared to speak for himself.

Lambert also feels he could represent how people feel on issues.

Everyone is in favor of a pool but can the town support it financially?, he asked.

"I'll support it if it is feasible," he said.

Taxes should not go any higher, he said. They are high enough but there is not much you can do about it, he added.

Tom McGee

Spending time on the recreation board has given Tom McGee a taste for politics.

"My decision to run for council was based on the urgings of a group of people whose opinions I respect," said McGee, assistant manager for Floden Services.

"They felt I could do a good job and I am willing to spend the time necessary to carry out the wishes of the electorate," he added.

"I found I could not respond to the questions without qualification," he said.

"I have no quarrel with any long range planning but I feel that the next council should make some decisions regarding the implementation of such a plan," he said.

The Woods-Gordon report clearly sets out the function of council as legislative, not administrative, said McGee, answering the question of whether or not council should be involved in the day to day activities of the town.

"There are certain channels that you must go through in order to deal with an administrative problem," he added.

Dealing with the indoor swimming pool issue, McGee feels that if it can be financially accommodated by the town and if the people of Drayton Valley are in favor of it, he will support it. But he is not in favor of only ratepayers being able to vote on the issue.

Only ratepayers being able to vote on the issue "ignores the great number of people who pay their taxes indirectly through lease or rental," he said.

"In answer to the major questions regarding taxes, there are a great number of variables involved, such as grants, revenue, expenditures, and so on. Hopefully the next council will achieve a balance acceptable to all of the taxpayers," he said.

Charlie Miner

Charlie Miner, office manager for Pembina Resources, has decided to run again for town councillor.

"I really feel anybody on council can be of more benefit and more use in a second term than in a first term," he said.

The last three years on council has been rewarding because he says he has seen some positive changes and good progress in the general operation of the town.

But his job is not completed yet, he added.

"In the last three years the operation of the town has been approached from much more of a business-like attitude and it is necessary to continue that," he said.

Howard Olsen

Howard Olsen, superintendent of the Brazeau Power Project for TransAlta Utilities, says he has no political aspirations.

Even though he has no political aspirations he is looking at running for town council from a taxpayer's point of view, he said.

"I will do what I can to see that the town is run in a business-like manner. That is by controlling expenditures and trying to get maximum return for dollars spent."

Olsen has spent the last two years on town council.

Bill Paniec

Bill Paniec, financial administrative supervisor for Amoco, has thrown his hat in the ring to run for town councillor.

"I am confident that my financial and administrative skills would be a definite asset to council," said Paniec.

There is a need for people who appreciate the taxpayer and that the taxpayer is not a source of unlimited funds, he added.

Paniec feels confident he is qualified to represent the masses on council. If elected he promises to remain unaligned with any side and to look at all of the proposals then vote according to his conscious, he said.

Regarding some of the issues surrounding the election, Paniec says town council should not be involved in the day to day operations of the town. The performance of administration should be monitored by council, he added.

"As demonstrated by the town's financial position three years ago, proper long-range planning, that is, minimum semi-annual priority reviews to monitor variables such as economics and population growth patterns, was not done."

Long-range planning would have improved the present water situation, he said.

When questioned about a new swimming pool, Paniec said "If my taxes will only go up $10, sure I want a pool but if they go up $200, no."

Paniec is in favor of only ratepayers being able to vote on the indoor swimming pool issue. "Although renters may indirectly absorb some costs they are buffered by market conditions. Businesses and taxpayers will be directly affected," he said.

Paniec's major concern is taxes.

"In recognition of our present economic climate and if we are to attract future industry, taxes have to remain static."

Ralph Whitney

Ralph Whitney, co-owner of Twin River Auto Centre Ltd., likes to get involved.

"I am one of those community-oriented people," said Whitney.

"I like getting involved.

"Besides, there should be an average guy on council who knows the businessman."

Whitney pledges his new business would not stop him from performing council duties if he was elected.

"If I do something I do it all out. If I have to work 20 hours at the office and then put another 20 hours in at council, I will," he said.

Jim Wolff

The indoor swimming pool issue is just one reason why Jim Wolff has decided to run again for town council.

"There are certain things I wanted to see accomplished in the town that I won't be able to accomplish," said Wolff, a student councillor at Frank Maddock High School.

Besides wanting to follow the swimming pool issue, Wolff says there are a couple of organization and procedural issues, "I feel could be worked out better."

"Council needs leadership and consistency," he said. "Consistancy in rules of debate, policy and consistency in the decision making process."

"Council has to understand it cannot give away jobs to the mayor, administration or anyone else," he added.

The people of Drayton Valley need enough confidence in council and in themselves to really get involved in their own community, he said.

"I would like to see the fragmented population glued together."

Wolff is not satisfied with the town's long range planning.

"It has taken 2½ years to determine a five-year capital budget. It has taken one year for council to almost make a decision on a pieblocite promised 'in the near future,'" he said.

As for becoming involved in the day to day operations of the town, Wolff says it is council's job to make policy decisions, not administrative decisions.

A multicultural centre is an "interesting idea; but premature. The proposal would have to have a lot of intense community involvement," said Wolff.

Wolff believes there should be a slight increase in taxes in line with inflation. Taxes could not be lowered unless Drayton Valley is willing to accept a considerable cut in services.

Opinions

Candidates ignore questionnaire

This week's questionnaire has resulted in an unfortunate degree of consternation among the local candidates for town council.

The majority of them have declined to participate in what The Western Review believes to be an informative means of polling the candidates' positions on a variety of topics.

The opportunity for amplification on the issues offered is limited but as part of our coverage we approached each of the individuals with further space to present their platforms.

Given that our coverage is intended to provide as complete a picture of the hopefuls and what they stand for we feel that the questionnaires should have been answered. The argument that a 'yes' or 'no' answer on a issue is misleading assumes that the voters would be basing their decisions on a simple chart and ignoring the rest of the coverage we are providing.

The intention of the survey is to provide a variety of topics and issues for the candidates and the public to focus on.

Hopefully, there will be other items brought forth. But by virtue of our regular coverage of town council meetings we feel we are in a position to speculate on what has been and what will be important topics of discussion for those people who will form the next town council.

A vote can only be made as 'yes' or 'no' and eventually most of the questions will have to be addressed in such a manner.

Our job is to present as accurate as possible a profile of the candidates as we can. To do that requires co-operation and we feel that it is worth noting why we feel we should have received it.

Canada's a great country to visit...but I wouldn't want to live here; with the economy the way it is and all.

Grad graffiti

Budding immature artists seem to have found a new type of canvas to vent their expressions on.

These juveniles (one could hardly call them adults) seemed to have acquired a talent and a certain amount of enthusiasm for painting buildings, somewhat to the disgruntlement of their owners.

Between Friday and Saturday these immature juvenile artists attacked all four public schools, the liquor store, RCMP headquarters, a stop sign, the water tower, the pump shack below the water tower, the building beside the Bus Depot owned by Hank Shimbashi and the outdoor skating rink beside H.W. Pickup.

If the person or persons are caught by the police they could face up to five years in jail on a charge of mischief to private property as well as a $500 fine and/or six months in jail on a charge of mischief to public property.

Who in their right mind could justify a reason for defacing public and private property? Maybe with a good lawyer, the person or persons, should they be caught, could possibly get away with insanity as a defence.

What is unfortunate about the incident is it reflects poorly on the graduating class at Frank Maddock High School who probably had little or nothing to do with it.

Election anecdotes outlined

The election is still three weeks away and already I have a couple of election anecdotes. While taking a picture at the golf tournament Sunday I was taking a picture of June Hasselbarth when who should walk by but Bob Mayhew.

The shot involved lying about two feet from the cup with a wide angle lens on the camera and shooting up as June putted towards me. Bob's request was that I allow him the same opportunity.

Good luck. Who ever heard of someone putting with a driver?

On the other side of the mayoralty race I was talking to Alex Salfi just after we'd begun circulating the infamous questionnaire.

Knowing our occasionally quirky ideas about humor at The Western Review he asked me if it was going to be 'silly'.

I wouldn't say anything other than Jack Morrison would be dropping one off to him shortly and he could decide for himself.

According to Jack, Alex's comment on reading it was "Noooo, this isn't silly at all."

Now that's funny.

Ace's View

from the water tower

Hidy Ho sportsfans.

Ace hopes you liked the picture of him astride the water tower last week — as you can see he's not someone to shirk his job.

But, as you could read from the caption, the water tower's going to be dismantled, taken down, carted off and who knows what else.

As you may have also noticed it's taken your town bird three paragraphs to get around to bringing up the fact. Why, you ask, is he not shakin' in his DV Oxfords over the prospect of losing his home and lookout station?

Not to worry, my unfeathered friends. Ace has the proverbial ace up his wing.

If you look at what's being discussed the most these days it's the election. On one side you got your good guys and on the other you got your bad guys — depending on who you talk to the sides change back and forth.

Ace figures this 'side' business is all too silly and that there shouldn't be an 'Us and Them' to be argued over. It leads to a bastille type of mentality (which is sort of like a water tower) and something any raven'll tell you is a hell of a thing to have in a town.

So, what Ace proposes is a new party that doesn't have any sides, just like a water tower. Yup, he isn't on the ballot officially, so you'll have to write his moniker in as the candidate of your choice.

The gist of all this and there is one, is that if you elect Ace you get his water tower as well. After all, if the name of the party is the water tower party and the candidate happens to live in one how can you not accept it. AND, not tear the damned thing down.

What we're talking here is political expediency. Ace knows he doesn't have a bird's chance in a hurricane of convincing town council to keep the water tower. So, the only thing he can do is join the outfit.

What he's hoping for is that he'll get enough write-in votes for both mayor and council that he'll get to be both a councillor and the mayor. Bob and Alex may not like that too much but trust Ace when he says that they'll probably be better off if they don't beat Ace.

You know the old saying. "Never rile a raven."

Well, Ace is about as rileable as a raven gets and the thing for Alex and Bob to do is to hope they don't win.

Next time out of the coop Ace may just toss out a few election promises of his own and give his candidate's profile and platform.

So, on election day vote Ace for everything, and remember, "Only a birdbrain can do the job."

The Town of Drayton Valley is a community Business...and it should remember that its business is the welfare of the community.

Student graduation celebration preserved

By Jack Morrison

Between Friday and Saturday several buildings in Drayton Valley were defaced with graduation slogans.

The buildings include all four public schools, the liquor store, the Towers building (beside the Bus Depot), the outdoor skating rink, a stop sign on 43rd St. and 50th Ave., the water tower, the pump shack below the water tower, several post office boxes and RCMP headquarters.

The damage is well in excess of $2,000, said Corporal Tom Turner.

Half of the south wall and a quarter of the west wall of the liquor store was painted, said Emil Vogel, manager.

"If they have to sandblast it would probably cost over $2,000," he said.

"It is a mindless, stupid act to me," said Ritchie Woods, principal of Frank Maddock High School, adding he is not impressed.

It is also unfortunate that people will associate it with the graduating class, he said.

All of the staff indicated spontaneously that not any of the graduating class did it, he said.

"I am totally disappointed."

"Whoever did it spoiled a great grad," said Colin Cavanagh, principal of H.W. Pickup Junior High School.

The RCMP are conducting an investigation into the incident, said Turner.

The Criminal Code defines an act of this nature as mischief, said Constable Jeff Smith.

Section 387 (3) reads: "Every one who commits mischief in relation to public property is guilty of an indictable offence and is liable to imprisonment for fourteen years or an offence punishable on summary conviction."

On a summary conviction a person could receive a maximum six-month jail sentence and/or a $500 fine, said Smith.

The Criminal Code also reads in section four: "Every one who commits mischief in relation to private property is guilty of an indictable offence and is liable to imprisonment for five years."

The RCMP station was just one of many buildings painted.

Shooting club receives approval

A new rifle range near the Drayton Valley bridge passed a test Wednesday at a Leduc county Development Appeal Board (DAB) hearing.

The first year of existence for the Evergreen Shooting Club rifle range went under the spotlight when the club's one-year development permit came up for renewal.

And the DAB gave the Drayton Valley-based club a new lease on life, despite complaints from neighboring residents.

Nearby landowner Del Hunter invited members of the DAB to "come down and have coffee and sandwiches some time."

"See what we have to listen to six nights a week and on Saturdays."

The range and picnic grounds Hunter refers to was established in August, 1982 near the North Saskatchewan River, about two miles south of Highway 39.

Since going into operation, the overall use of firearms in the area at night increased, said Hunter.

"Like he says, it could be somebody else but we never seemed to have that problem before they came in there."

"It's only been there a year and already they're shooting at nights and shooting on Sunday."

Hunter said the firearm activity poses a hazard to hikers, snowmobilers and hikers often seen roaming around the attractive setting.

Of particular concern to Hunter and two other appellants was Evergreen's request for an exemption from two permit conditions: No shooting on Sundays and the renewal of the permit annually.

"When rules are broken, it is sufficient for a termination of an agreement," wrote Alfred Roos.

But Evergreen Secretary-Treasurer Gordon MacLock refuted the neighbors' claims.

"There has been shooting in there for many years prior to us coming on the scene," pointed out MacLock.

"It is an excellent area. It has attracted, unfortunately, a lot of people who know a range is there."

"We are aware that there are going to be people using that facility that are not members."

But he said the irresponsible discharging of firearms is exactly the kind of behavior the club is working to prevent.

"It is going to happen in that area, it's going to happen five miles from Leduc. I'm sure it happens in many areas around the province."

He said the final sections of safety fence are about to be installed and the prescribed signs clearly mark the site.

In response to a question from the board, MacLock said 21 of 31 members are from the County of Leduc. Only one membership is complimentary, issued in return for extensive clearing work done at no cost to the club, he said.

Leduc county members come from districts such as Lindale, Buck Creek, Carnwood and Thorsby, he said.

MacLock said the one-year time limit included in the original permit imposes a financial hardship on the club and asked for a longer expiry date.

"We don't wish to operate a club for two, three or five years on a yearly basis and then find after that kind of cash expenditure to lose the club."

The total restriction on Sunday shooting makes the organizing of inter-club shoots impossible and hinders long-term credibility, he said.

"Without this freedom we are limited as to the impact we can have on the community" in the promotion of gun safety. "We would like a longer term permit, a secure base from which to operate."

Assistant Development Officer Kevin Stone, after visiting the site, told the DAB he thought "the club has done a commendable job of complying" with the development regulations.

The DAB eventually granted the club another permit, deciding to set a three-year limit after discussing the matter in a closed session.

The DAB also agreed to another request of the club and approved shooting on Sundays but only between 12 p.m. and 4 p.m. and only three days a year by special permit.

Although the club won't face another hearing for several years, the DAB ruled that annual reviews of the operation would continue with the county reserving the right to impose further conditions.

Tragedy strikes

This mobile home in E&B Trailer Court was totally destroyed by fire Sunday at 2:30 a.m. Damage is estimated at approximately $35,000.

Election planned

On Nomination Day, Sept. 19, nomination papers were filed by six candidates—Colleen Lee, Charles Close, Dan Bilawchuk, Elmer Hemmerling, Tom Wong and George Randahl for the five positions open on Breton village council. The same day one candidate verbally withdrew his nomination.

The remaining five candidates were declared elected by acclamation. However, the returning officer did not receive the withdrawal in writing as required by the Local Authorities Act.

Subsequently, in consultation with the Department of Municipal Affairs it has been decided an election must be held to determine the five councillors. Election day will be Oct. 17.

Students begin work experience

By Jack Morrison

Thirty Grade 12 students will be working their way through the first semester of the 1983/84 school year.

Work experience is an optional Grade 12 course, said Jeannette Miner, work experience co-ordinator at Frank Maddock High School. Students started their work experience course Thursday, she added.

The enrolment in the course last year averaged 50 per cent of the student body, Miner said. Out of 150 students 75 took the course, she added.

The course is designed for students who want to explore possible career choices. A student may have several jobs, she said.

This year Miner has placed students in such areas as child care, ambulance service, teachers' aid, hairdressing, legal secretary, meat cutting, junior high physical education and banking to name a few.

"If it is available, we try and get it for them," she said.

Each student works for two classes a day, five days a week for a period of one semester, Miner said.

Besides learning about a career, a student may earn 10 credits for the course.

"Work experience is not a place to drop a student and it is not just any old course."

A lot of students stay with the field they have chosen, she said.

Pembina arm wrestlers earn third in country

Arm wrestling is fast becoming Alberta's sport.

Thanks to people in Drayton Valley, Evansburg, Seba Beach and Breton, arm wrestling is getting the recognition many of the other well covered sporting events are getting.

Wayne Gwin, who moved to Drayton Valley from Breton, has won second place in the 60 to 65 kg class and the rookie of the year award at 20 during the Canadian sit-down championships held in Edmonton Sept. 17.

"Next year I'll have a chance to do a lot better," Gwin said. "I want to go to a tournament in Saskatchewan but I'll have to see about that one. I'll be training in Evansburg for a while now."

Gwin and other arm wrestlers vaulted the Pembina area team to third place in the country. Edmonton won first place, Calgary was second and the Pembina team tied Winnipeg for the team title of third spot.

Canadian Arm Wrestling Association President John Miazdzyk of Evansburg was thrilled with the area's showing against competitors from all over the country.

"We've been there all along and it's up to them (media) to break the ice for us," Miazdzyk said.

Evansburg's Terry Davey was seventh in the 70 kg event while Rod Barrett earned second in the 110 kg class. Janice Anderson of Thorsby won second prize in the ladies 55 kg class and Gord Melnyk of the Pembina team won third place in the 55 kg class. Dennis Burs was third in the 60 kg class and Richelle Gardener of Seba Beach won the women's open class.

Miazdzyk said he was happy the Edmonton dailies gave the championships such exposure in their Sunday editions and he'll be looking forward to seeing the replay of the tournament on CBC sports.

Miazdzyk better get used to the publicity he and his crew have brought for themselves as he gets ready for the World Wrist Wrestling Tournament held in Petaluma, California. ABC's Wide World of Sports crew will be there to bring all the action into the households of millions in North America.

Miazdzyk and his fellow sportsmen will be looking forward to participating or learning the most they can about the Canadian stand-up championships in Saskatchewan Nov. 19. They will also be sizing up the competition in Latin America's Costa Rica for the World Sit-down Tournament Dec. 6 to 10.

Recreation

Badminton is drawing interested people every Monday night. [photo by Joe Patrice]

Birds bashed

The season of the bird has begun.

Recreational badminton is being held at Frank Maddock High School every Monday evening from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Ariene Clark, president of the club, hopes to attract more players to the sessions with a brighter and more organized look to the group.

"We're going to try and organize draws so that everyone can play a couple of games against all those interested in the club," Clark said. "We've had a problem with people drifting off."

This year the club boasts of about 20 members ranging from the beginner to local talent rated in the city.

"If we could get more people interested in the club maybe we could get into competition with other clubs," Clark added. "Many of the better players go to Leduc while still others go to the city.

Racquets and birds are available for use and the birds will be sold at a discount to members who need them for their own personal practicing sessions.

"We are encouraging everyone to come out. We'll train the beginner and they'll be surprised at how fast they pick up the game. It's a quick game and easy to play."

Clark has been playing in Drayton Valley for about seven years and participated in the Alberta Winter Games twice.

"We hope to get some pros out to conduct clinics, set up tournaments and ladders to play. We want to promote badminton. We could use a little feedback from the community.

"Again, you don't have to be competitive to play; we're just stressing that it is there."

Saints split

Crude won their first game of the Pembina Flag Football season Monday with a 27-24 victory over Saints.

Saints kept a two-game winning streak alive by shutting out Panthers 10-0, Sept. 21. Saints moved into a first place with the win but Panthers have a game in hand.

Panthers play Brewers tonight 5:30 p.m. while Saints play their final game against the Brewers Monday. All games are held at Frank Maddock High School.

Ron Manwaring won the Dennis Manning trophy for low net score of 63.

Gloria Bodnar won the Lee Ostermiller trophy for her 106 game in the ladies' flight.

Vi Holm won the low net trophy for her 67 score.

Trip made

By Paula Kitching

Nineteen members and families of the Moonlight Trail 4-H Light Horse Club made a trip recently to the Ram River Falls area for a five-day camping excursion. One of the parents had an unfortunate incident when a horse fell on him but most everyone had a good time.

The troop had an interesting visit with a trapper who lives in one of the small valleys.

A pot luck supper was held at the annual awards night Sept. 25 at Easyford Hall. Presentations of trophies were made to the event and class winners for achievement day in June.

Jerome Roberts won for most improved and Thresa Bustin won for best individual effort. The award for most spectacular dismount was presented to Ken MacKenzie.

The first meeting to start the new season will be at Easyford Hall Oct. 16 at 8 p.m.

Ceasars defeated in playoffs

Drayton Valley Ceasars are singing the blues.

Ceasars won one game and lost two as they earned fourth place in the Central Alberta Rural Towns Soccer League tournament held Saturday in Drayton Valley.

Stony Plain defeated Whitecourt Marauders 3-1 in the final.

Drayton Valley won their only game of the weekend 8-1 over Mayerthorpe then lost 2-0 to Whitecourt at Lions Park and 3-1 to Spruce Grove at Frank Maddock High School.

Peter Kelepouris showed why he is one of the team's most efficient scorers as he made no mistake about Les Hewlett's cross.

Mayerthorpe's Barry Joines, the league's most valuable player, scored the only goal for the visitors on a low, hard drive past Simon Kelly.

Ceasars' Chris Duffy slashed in for a remarkable goal that caught the far corner just before Chris Brown, the team's most valuable player, scored the final goal on a penalty shot.

Drayton Valley completely dominated the visitors to the north but could not handle the teams in blue and white.

The dark-striped Marauders could not get past the inspired Ceasars for the better part of the first half of the semi-final until a hard drive off a Ceasar defender caught the top right corner over Simon Kelly.

At 1-0 in the second half a bone-crushing tackle on one of the Marauders' forwards gave the visiting club an indirect free kick. League scoring champion Julian Annicchiarico scored his second goal of the game on a quick pass from his mid-fielder.

Kelly made a sparkling save to rob Whitecourt of their third goal of the game but the forwards and midfielders could not score in front of him at the other end.

Stony Plain went on to win their second tournament championship in a row over the Marauders, after defeating Spruce Grove 4-3 in the other semi-final.

Spruce Grove still had enough left after losing to the eventual champions and defeating Hinton to drop the host team for the second time this year.

Ceasars were less than ready for another game that day as they let Spruce Grove control the game in the early going. Not until Spruce Grove finally scored the first goal did the team come to life.

Joe Poirier scored his second goal of the year on a perfect pass from fellow midfielder Eric Van Der Toorn.

The game was tied at 1-1 at the half but Ceasars were fit to be tied by the second blue and white clad squad they faced.

Spruce Grove players mowed over the hapless Ceasars' fullbacks and pumped in two more goals.

Behind the Bench ... Andy Kelly, one of Ceasars' leading scorers this season, was injured in the Whitecourt game and has recovered from his knee injury ... Bob Smith was voted as one of the Ceasars' outstanding defensive players while sharing the honors with Blake Little ... Chris Kelly's injury from the Whitecourt game last week would not permit him to play in the tournament ...

Ceasar's lost twice in the weekend.

Trade fair deemed successful

By Stuart Adams

As a first-time venture for a fledgling Chamber of Commerce the Entwistle/Evansburg Trade Fair has to be described as a resounding success.

Saturday, between 600 and 700 visitors toured over 40 displays set up in the neighboring communities.

Chamber President Dan Crockett said the event took about two months of preparation but the actual selling of display booths went much quicker. He credited fellow chamber member Garry Mitchell with the bulk of the display sales. "It just took off and Garry had it sold within a couple of days."

Crockett and Mitchell were pleased with the variety of exhibitors entered which also included out-of-town entrants who provide services not available locally.

Seventeen booths were set up in the Legion Hall in Evansburg and another 24 in the Entwistle Curling Rink. The Chamber provided transportation between the two sites in the Tan Van, which was on loan from Wildwood.

The men were apologetic that several demonstrations did not go as planned due to last minute difficulties and attributed the problems to their inexperience. Log building and the extinguishing of a burning automobile were two scheduled events which Crockett hopes to include next year.

At the end of the day the workers were tired but already talking about "next year". "Next year will be the second-ever," laughed Mitchell.

Crockett said that there were initial difficulties in convincing some of the exhibitors to participate, mainly because there had never been a fair held there before. "Everyone's a skeptic the first year," he speculated.

He added that once the fair began to take shape and the available space was booked that prospective exhibitors had to be turned away.

The Evansburg/Entwistle Chamber of Commerce was formed last spring and has a membership roll of 85. "We've got the right group of people together who want both towns to grow," said Crockett.

From the response by the exhibitors and the people of the towns and surrounding area they're on the right track.

Final rodeo draws local cowboys

A Berrymoor man has been named best-all around cowboy in the Wild Rose Amateur Rodeo Association season circuit.

Bill Thompson, who will be competing in the bareback riding, team roping and steer wrestling, out-distanced more than 300 other competitors in points in the season.

Thompson joins Drayton Valley's Allan Brown and Minsult and Tomahawk's Boyd Solomon and Ron Solomon in the bareback finals to be held in Mayarthorpe this weekend.

Rick Meston of Drayton Valley has qualified for the calf roping. Travis Sekura from Drayton Valley has qualified for the saddle bronc while Drayton Valley's Fran Meston and Iris Tuftin will be in the ladies' barrels.

Brown, Daren Tuftin, Garry Ness and Guy Ness of Drayton Valley will be bull riding with Terry Ditchuk from Tomahawk.

Fred and Bill Thompson of Berrymoor will team up to compete against the clock with Nels Tuftin and Glen Nash; Earl and Mike Thompson of Berrymoor; Len Gerard of Drayton Valley and Ron Sullivan of Mayarthorpe; and Dean Tuftin of Drayton Valley and Jack Gilbert of Gainford.

Steer wrestling competitors include Drayton Valley's Glen Nash, Gilbert, Richard Nelson, Barry Argent and Minsult while Gainford's Jim Gilbert is in the steer wrestling.

Everett Ness of Drayton Valley and Jim Thompson of Tomahawk will compete in the boys' cow riding.

Roy Thompson of Tomahawk will compete in the junior steer riding with Drayton Valley's Brock Nelson.

Leslie Schultz and Dean Tuftin will represent Drayton Valley in the junior barrels while Ken Hopf qualified for the wild cow milking and the wild horse race.

Teams begin volleyball

Frank Maddock High School volleyball teams have begun their season with tournaments.

Warriors (boys' team) defeated squads from Bonnyville and St. Albert on their side of a 12-team tournament held in Barrhead on the weekend.

Gord Tucker, coach for the boys' side, said he was pleased with his team's performance and added that it was "a super experience to prepare for the season."

Carl Passay's Amazons played their tournament at Grant MacEwan College. As many as 24 teams participated. Amazons played Sexsmith, Strathcona Composite, Bev Facey, Sherwood Park and Red Deer.

Neither team brought home any trophies but they will be preparing for tournaments coming up in the fall.

Next weekend the Warriors play in Rimbey then play at Grant MacEwan the following weekend.

Graduates honored in ceremony

He explained he was looking for something relating to personal growth and chose an adaptation of a Rudyard Kipling poem, "If" sung by Roger Whittaker. "The fact that it was put to music made it all the more effective to me and more appealing," said Woods.

In conversation with Woods and Grad Committee Advisor and teacher Brenda Prentice, they agreed that this year's chosen theme was an apt one for this particular class.

"This class is characterized by a regard for personal responsibility as members of the school," said Woods.

Prentice felt that although they acted more as individuals over the year they were conscious of each other when it was needed. She and Woods made light of the petition by the students which resulted in the moving of the smoking area from the lobby to outside the school.

"We've been reluctant to change it," said Woods, "and here they approach us."

This year's gift by the graduating class to the school was a photographic portrait of Principal Ritchie Woods and although it was unavailable at the time, Sherri Wallace, vice-chairperson for the graduating committee, made the announcement to Students' Union President Wayne Starling and the assembly.

Elsea Keown presented the Masonic Award on behalf of the local Masons to Susan Romanchuk to further her post-secondary studies.

Honor awards were won by Kent Bernes, Irene Stoltz, Tania Sweet, Dawnelle Topstad and Sherri Wallace and Murray McMahon.

Alberta Heritage Savings and Trust Fund Scholarships were presented to Kent Bernes, Kari Fiveland, Joy Strecker, Tania Sweet, Dawnelle Topstad and Brenda Trimble.

The winners of the W.F. White Memorial Award, presented on behalf of Pembina Resources by Al Horne were Susan Romanchuk and Tania Sweet.

Rec department meets budget

Drayton Valley recreation budget is on target for 1983.

Although the operational budget for the department is listed at $401,355 it represents about 11 per cent of the town's budgeted operational expenditure ($3,636,873), Dennis Woolsey, recreation director, said.

With the first draft of the 1984 recreation budget expected to be completed by Sept. 30, Woolsey added he doesn't expect any increases.

"We'll most probably face a zero per cent increase in expenditures without cutting services next year."

For the first seven months (January to the end of July, 1983) the recreation department has spent $202,846 on all facilities, maintenance and repairs.

Arena expenditures total $62,525, which represents more than 30 per cent of the recreation expenditures. The pool expenditure for the same seven months is $44,855 and the park maintenance has cost $31,031 (most of this cost went to salaries).

Drayton Valley Recreation Department has cut back from five to four staff members working at Centennial Arena and may adopt an unapproved change in policy towards programming.

Revenue for the department in seven months includes $25,562 from the arena, $33,097 from the pool, $4,948 from the Rec Plex and $14,000 from programs offered by the town.

Revenue total for the end of July from all sources is $120,909.

"The rest (of the budgeted revenue; $163,930) will come mostly from grants," Woolsey said.

Blades announce new executive

Drayton Valley Blades's representatives have announced the executive for the 1983-84 season in the Central Alberta Junior B Hockey League.

Alden Baird will take the helm as coach, Jeff Cartwright is president, Norm Hasenluk is the secretary-treasurer, Les Sinclair is handling program sales, Arnold Dunham is taking care of advertising and George Thiel is business promoter. Kevin Love is home game manager, Gary Humphrey is an executive while Mike Koebernick is assistant coach and also on the executive.

Brandette continues this season as major sponsor for the club while other local merchants help financially.

"We're getting quite a few of the Drayton Valley players back this season." Cartwright said.

These players include defenceman Dwayne Parenteau, centre Conley Dunham, goalies Darin Kuhn and Rod Baranuik, centre Mark Wilneff, Rick Thiel on left wing and right winger Ken Baird.

Most home games are slated for Friday and Saturday nights. These will include special nights like Hallowe'en and two games on Friday the 13th.

The teams will be expected to play games against Barrhead, Rimbey, Whitecourt and Hinton. It was not known at press time whether Olds, Red Deer, Fort McMurray and Edson would be in the league this season.

Rimbey won the league handily last year while the Blades were eliminated from the playoffs in the first round by Whitecourt.

A schedule has not been set but league play is expected to begin in October.

Dancing enjoyed by avid skater

Tammy Regenwetter dreams of becoming a dancer. [photo by Jack Merrion]

Student-at Random

Tammy Regenwetter, a Grade 12 student, has a dream of being a dancer.

Currently Tammy is working as a special project student for performing arts.

As a special project student Tammy demonstrates dance moves and stretches with students taking the performing arts 12 course.

Although she wants to dance professionally, she feels she will need a second career to fall back on. She plans on attending Grant MacEwan College because it is the only institution which offers a dance instruction course.

Although dancing plays a major role in her life, Tammy is involved in volleyball and figure skating.

"It is really hard to get anywhere in figure skating," she said. "They (the judges) have really set their standards high."

"They don't settle for anything less than perfection, especially in dancing," she added.

Tammy belongs to the Canadian Figure Skating Association (CFSA) and is halfway through her senior silver in Dance. She is also working on her junior silver in freestyle and figure.

Tammy says she would like to have a job but being in Grade 12, especially with the new comprehensive exams starting in January, "I just don't have time for it."

Town dogs poisoned

There have been a large number of dog poisonings recently in the Poplar Ridge area.

The poisonings are in reaction to the large number of roaming dogs and the number of dog bites reported, Drayton Valley RCMP officer Corporal Chris Lee said.

Lee suspects the dogs are being poisoned by baited meat laced with a strychnine-like poison.

"We have made contact with the dog control people in the County of Parkland, who will be stepping up surveillance and enforcement of the area," he said.

People should take better control of their dogs and not allow them to roam free, cautioned Lee.

Anyone having information about the person or persons who may be involved in the poisonings is requested to contact the Drayton Valley RCMP detachment.

Dream shaped

By Joe Poirier

As the man shapes his dream the dream inevitably shapes the man.

What began as a serious thought towards helping children has become a commitment to build Brightwood Youth Ranch.

Irvin Reich is helping to build his own dream. This youth ranch, 42 km north of Drayton Valley, will be a Christian-oriented interdenominational community ranch for children of all ages.

Although construction started in October, 1982, the idea behind the ranch evolved about five years ago with a promise.

Reich, born in Tomahawk, has always wanted to do something for the children in this area and help them learn more about God in a Christian atmosphere.

As president of the ranch's board of directors, he has made the project his life's work. He has sold his worldly possessions and concentrated solely on the task at hand.

"My wife Selma says our refrigerator has never been so full," Reich said. "People have been helping us since we've worked on this project."

Luckily he is not alone. Through the goodness of concerned citizens from all over the province the ranch is nearly completed and should be ready to open by Christmas.

What makes the whole idea look so much like a dream is how fast the people have worked.

A creek has been transformed into a lake for swimming. Acres of wood will be next year's playground and this year's ski hill. This year's

Community book completed

The Rocky Rapids Community League has recently completed a Cake Craft cookbook and it has been sent to be printed.

The cookbook will be comprised of cake recipes in the front and in the back it will show how to take an ordinary cake pan and cut a cake to make different designs, said Eileen Belva, a community league member.

The league started the cookbook in July of 1983 with the idea that it was a good way to make money for the community, she said.

The idea was originally presented by the Gateway Publishing, a company from Winnipeg, she added.

The cookbook will hopefully be available Nov. 1, she said. It will be sold for $6 at various outlets in Drayton Valley, she added.

Chief takes trip

Sheldon Fuson

Drayton Valley Fire Chief Sheldon Fuson is winging his way to Seattle, Washington today to represent all Alberta fire chiefs at a world

At a Canadian conference held in Sudbury, Ont., in August, the Federation of World Volunteer Firefighters approached the Canadian association and asked to have two representatives from each province attend the conference in Seattle, said Fuson.

Gordie Wilson of Brooks, Alta., and Brian Winters of Cochrane, Alta., were initially chosen as the representatives, he said. But due to personal commitments, Wilson was unable to attend, added Fuson, explaining how he was chosen.

The Canadian representatives are all being sponsored by the Japan Firefighters' Association, with all expenses paid, he said.

The first Federation of World Volunteer Firefighters conference starts today and runs until Oct. 1.

"It is really quite an honor to represent Alberta fire chiefs on an international level," said Fuson.

Chairman of EC re-elected

E.C. (Dene) Meraw of Drayton Valley was re-elected as chairman of the Educational Consortium's board of directors at its fall meeting held recently. Vice-chairman for 1983-84 is Dr. M. Andrews, president of AVC Edmonton.

The board of directors are representatives of the eight post-secondary institutions which offer credit programs in Drayton Valley, plus four members from the Regional Advisory Committee. In addition to Meraw, the regional board members are Mervin Fasula and Nevis LaBranche of Drayton Valley and Howard Pearson of Alder Flats.

Many people still seem to believe a better quality program is offered in Edmonton, said Meraw.

"We are offering the same credit quality programs, at the same price, by the same institution—right here in Drayton Valley," he added.

"We still have to reach those people who are leaving the Drayton Valley area, to attend school in Edmonton, because they don't know enough about the quality educational opportunities we are providing right here in town," said Meraw.

The Consortium is offering programs in other centres in the region for the first time this year. Meraw listed examples of a social work course in Whitecourt and Athabasca University administration courses in Rocky Mountain House.

Co-operation with groups in these areas, plus greater activity by Advisory Committee members, will be a priority for the board this year, said Meraw.

"We have a real challenge in this area to raise the Consortium's profile," he added.

The next advisory meeting, to which any interested people are invited, is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 29 at 7 p.m. at [redacted] Drayton Valley.

Manning award won by doctor

Dr. Kenneth J. Kasha of Guelph, Ont., received Sept. 20 the Ernest C. Manning Foundation's 1983 cash award of $75,000 for outstanding innovation in the development of food crop yields to help feed a hungry world. His innovative technique for breeding new strains of barley in one-half the time previously required, has placed Canada in the spotlight of world plant genetics.

After the first haploid plant was discovered in 1922, many researchers recognized that they could be valuable in producing pure breeding lines for crop development and over a 40-year period attempted this cross, without success. In 1968, Kasha and his co-workers undertook studies to hybridize barley and developed the bulbosum method. This method of barley breeding has not been patented and is used freely throughout the world.

Ninety per cent of all barley is grown for feed and Canada is the largest exporter of barley in the world. The implications of this method are far-reaching, for it has stimulated related research on other crop yields, such as wheat.

Kasha grew up on a farm near Lacombe, graduated from the University of Alberta with a degree in Plant Science and is presently with the Crop Science Department of the University of Guelph. He has been invited to speak in 10 countries to describe his techniques, including international meetings in Japan, Chile, Great Britain and the United States in 1981-82.

This year the Manning Foundation is also making honorable mention of two other outstanding innovators who merit special recognition.

Lorne A. Whitehead of Vancouver was given honorable mention for his invention of a unique Prism Light Guide System. The system, discovered in 1979, using either sunlight or electric light as a light source, transports the light by a square pipe, moulded from acrylic plastic, to the area of the building to be illuminated

Murray Moo-Young of Waterloo is receiving an honorable mention award for development of a new technology for converting cellulosic wastes into protein foods, known as the Waterloo process.

Evansburg art collection worth the drive

Evansburg area residents shouldn't miss it if it's worth the 25-minute drive from Drayton Valley to view the 30-work collection on display at the Evansburg Public Library.

This is the third year the library has taken advantage of the travelling show put out by the Alberta Art Foundation and the decision was a wise one.

Entitled 'Four Seasons', this collection of paintings displays the four seasons as they occur in Alberta and depicted by Alberta artists.

Done in a variety of mediums and styles, we see the diversity of our province from the prairies through the Badlands to the mountains and forests of the northern areas.

Treatments of the subjects are just as varied and range from high realism to abstract, with most of the works falling somewhere in the middle

Alberta has a number of well-known artists and some of them, such as W.L. Stevenson, Thelma Manery and Harry Savage (all of whom are represented) have national reputations. Vivian Thierfelder is currently on exhibit in an Edmonton art gallery and all of the painters have had such shows.

Librarian Liz Lauer is pleased with the exhibition and compares it to the first display the library had under the Art Foundation's program. She feels there is something for everyone in the show and hopes local artists and appreciators will attend the show.

The library is located in the Grand Trunk High School and is open during school hours from 9 a.m to 3.30 p.m. weekdays and 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays to Thursdays. The show will be on exhibit until Oct 13

Season starts

D.V. Presents has planned a whooping good time Friday night.

The Wild Colonial Boys will be opening up the season in a cabaret style, said Mary Poloway, one of the organizers of D.V. [illegible].

The Wild Colonial Boys were a big hit in 1982 and are looking forward to coming back to Drayton Valley, said Poloway.

Approximately 270 people showed up at last year's performance. Because they had such a good time they played an hour longer than they were supposed to, she added.

This year there will be some floor space set aside for people who would like to dance, Poloway said.

Besides a dance area D.V. Presents will be having a sandwich bar during intermission. The sandwich bar is included in the price of the ticket, said Poloway.

The cabaret starts at 8:30 p.m. in the Elks Hall, Friday. Advanced tickets and reserved tickets are available from various outlets, she said.

Bow hunting called truest sport

Hunting at its best is the only way Dennis Killips and his merry band of Drayton Valley Arrows can describe their leisurely stroll through the woods.

For three weeks during late August and early September the bowmen of the woods have the forest game to themselves.

"September 10 was the last day but we can still hunt in some areas while other areas only allow bowmen," Killips said.

"We have a lot of misses. It's important to try not to miss. If you can't score nine out of 10 times in an eight inch from 50 yards away then forget it. You have to be able to shoot to kill the animal. You can't have it wandering all over the field injured; it's inhumane."

Drayton Valley Arrows are always welcoming new members and they have a practise time from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesday evenings at H.W. Pickup

The arrow's blades are razor sharp

Special gloves protect the hands.

Dennis Killips takes aim with his hunting bow.

Philatelists enjoy stamp month

By Larry McInnis

October is stamp collecting month in Canada. Or, as Canada Post calls it, Stamp Collecting Month, with capitals to make it important.

Which it is, of course, and it's nice to see Canada get more involved with the idea, which has caught on south of the border, in Australia and in Great Britain. The first SCM was last year, so it's safe to call this one the second annual.

To promote SCM, Canada Post has come up with some interesting statistics on the state of the hobby in this country, at least as far as collectors of Canadian stamps are concerned, such as five per cent of Canadians aged 18 or over—785,000 people—collect stamps. That's according to their marketing and Opinions Regarding Stamps from October, 1981

Some others are that 18 per cent of Canadians collect stamps at some time during their life; 25 per cent have shown interest in stamp collecting at some time (although that statistic will be cold comfort to stamp dealers or philatelic counters, for that matter).

The telling statistic is that 66 per cent of stamps collected are mint: It tells me that a large percentage of Canadian collectors are relatively new to the hobby and collect, for example, Canadian new issues as they come out.

These collectors mean big business for Canada Post, as CP is quick to admit. Studies (and those nasty statistics again) show that $15 million is spent annually on philately through CP's philatelic outlets. In fact, 23 per cent of collectors of Canadian stamps purchase them at philatelic outlets, which lends more weight to my opinion that many collect new issues.

Some $50 million is spent on philately through purchase of stamps at regular post office counters, says CP. In fact, 36 per cent of collectors buy their stamps there.

So, there are a lot of people for CP to reach, and to do so CP is going all out: displays in post offices, banners, posters, posters for clubs, libraries, societies, stamp dealers, giveaway schoolbook covers and ceremonies with postal and municipal authorities all over the land, "a mari usque ad mare."

The aim of Stamp Collecting Month is not to sell more stamps but to make people aware that Canadian history is told through Canadian stamps, that their themes are designed to contribute to Canadian unity, not to mention broaden knowledge of our economics, natural resources, cultural, scientific and social achievements. And they carry the mail, too.

Or let your family top it any way they want – with anything they want. The taste is delicious! Everybody will love it. And you'll love how easy it is to make.

Continental Rna
Dough
2 [illegible] sugar
cup warm water (105°)
2 envelopes (2tsp) Fleischmann's Fast Rising Active Dry Yeast
1 cup Blue Bonnet® Margarine melted and cooled
4 eggs, beaten
2 tsp. salt
cup grated Parmesan cheese
cups all-purpose flour
Topping
cups chopped onion cloves garlic cut in half cup Margarine
cup grated Parmesan cheese
cups tomato sauce
tsp. rosemary
tsp. Worcestershire sauce to 12 large black olives, pitted and cut in half [illegible] oil

1 DISSOLVE sugar in warm water. Add yeast and let stand 10 minutes, stir well.

2 BEAT in melted margarine, eggs and salt. Stir in Parmesan cheese and 4 cups flour gradually, beating until smooth. If dough is very sticky, do not knead! Place dough in greased bowl, turn to grease top. Cover. LET RISE until doubled in bulk, about 1 to 1½ hours.

3 SAUTE chopped onions and garlic in 2 tbsp. margarine over low heat, covered. Cook until lightly brown. Do not brown. Add garlic, tomato mixture and rosemary. PUNCH down dough. Roll out dough to fit a 17 inch baking pan or 14 inch pizza pan. Roll out with remaining 2 tbsp. margarine. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. SPRINKLE dough with Parmesan cheese. Spread sauteed onions evenly over top. Combine tomato sauce and rosemary; pour over onions. ARRANGE olives in a lattice pattern on the top. Dip black olive halves in vegetable oil and place at each lattice crossing. BAKE at 375°F about 35 to 40 minutes or until crust is crispy & golden. SERVE hot. MAKES 8-12 servings.

MP reports on exporting goods

By Stan Schellenberger, MP

The 32nd Session of Parliament resumed its sitting last week in Ottawa. The highlight of the week for Canadians was the opportunity to see the new Tory leader, Brian Mulroney, in action in the House of Commons for the first time.

He was warmly received by his colleagues and the spectators in the overflowing public galleries. The Liberals and NDP reception was cordial on the opening day.

However, the next day, it was business as usual in the Chamber. The government is debating proposed amendments to the Export Development Act under Bill C-110 "An Act to amend the Export Development Act."

This Act is important to many constituents in the riding because we are exporters of agricultural and energy products. The Export Development Corporation, which was created under the Act, is required to assist Canadian businesses to develop foreign trade markets.

Our concern is that there is not enough assurance that the board of directors has sufficient experience with and appreciation for the dynamics of private enterprise. We believe very strongly that the private sector, the individuals with business experience, would be better able to direct the affairs and design objectives for the Export Development Corporation.

The government is using EDC money primarily for manufactured products. I pointed out in the House Sept. 15—"We in the agricultural sector have pleaded with the EDC to assist us in that area. But very little assistance has been forthcoming. If you look at the record of last year, only 62 companies were assisted, with most of the money going to the manufacturing sector. What, then, do we have? We have now created another Crown corporation to deal with agriculture, Canagrex."

The EDC employs 615 people to handle 62 loans and approximately 450 insurance policies. If it was run like a business we would not need Canagrex because the export needs for agriculture would be served by the EDC.

Warm-ups performed before exercizes

By Linda Giroux

The following are some warm up exercises for the arms, shoulders, upper spine, waist and legs.

The windmill is a warm up for the upper spine and waistline. Stand with the feet about 12 inches apart. Bring the arms straight out from the shoulders with the palms facing downward. Twist the upper body as far to the right as possible, then as far to the left. Repeat 10 times to each side.

For a variation, begin with the arms at the sides. With each rotation, raise the hands a few inches until both arms are stretched above the head. Continue the movement, lowering the arms a few inches at a time until they are back at the sides.

Still with the arms straight out from the shoulders, do arm rotations. Turn the arms so that the palms are up, then down again. Repeat.

Bend forward at the waist. Stretch the arms out parallel.

Full Steam Ahead.

"Sometimes we have three crews working 24 hours a day, seven days a week." For Doug Dedora and partner Brian Simmerson, steam-cleaning gas plants and oil rigs keeps them on the go most of the year.
"When it gets that busy, I'm lucky to find six hours of sleep in a night," Doug says.
Business has been good for Alberta Steam Cleaners Ltd. of Innisfail. Without the Alberta Opportunity Company, though, it might have been a [illegible].
A few years ago, Brian and Doug realized they needed additional equipment to keep going. But, because of their company's tight equity position, regular lenders weren't able to finance them. That's why Doug and Brian turned to the AOC.
The AOC carefully examined their past business performance, and because it seemed viable, granted the two partners the loan they had requested.
Today, with prospects for the future looking bright, it's full steam ahead for Alberta Steam Cleaners, another AOC success story.
If you have a sound business idea, but you're unable to obtain financing through regular sources, call or visit your nearest AOC office and ask for the brochure, Financing Alberta Business.

Organizations need volunteers

By Janice McGregor

With fall here, community organizations are gearing up for the activities they wish to sponsor and they are soliciting their membership for workers.

Many times, finding volunteers for executive positions and specific jobs becomes an impossible task, often because the job expectations have not been clearly spelled out. How can the problem of getting and keeping effective volunteers be solved?

First some words for the volunteer seeker:

District Home Economist
by Janice McGregor

When you want assistance, begin by deciding on the specific tasks for which you require help. Decide when you need the help and if the task is repetitive, state the frequency.

Once the tasks are well defined, look at the people you can call upon for help. Think about each prospective helper's unique abilities, then ask on the basis of these abilities.

Now a word to the volunteer: Never accept a task you cannot realistically complete. Although organizations should give a complete description of that task, don't be afraid to ask the questions, when, where, what, who and why. That way you'll be able to see the task in perspective.

Another characteristic of a good volunteer is accountability. When you can't do your part, for a valid reason, let the person in charge know and try to arrange for a replacement.

Being a volunteer or volunteer seeker is a skilled task. Approach either with a sense of commitment and expect results.

Whist games played at six tables

By Edith Norquay

Six tables were in play for whist Sept. 12 at the Drop-In Centre. Helen Schipper won ladies' high with low going to Frances Bestuzkey. Bill Genick won men's high and low was Rob McGregor.

Drayton Valley seniors took a bus trip to Drumheller Sept. 19, stopping at many points along the way. They visited Dinosaur Park, Homestead Museum and the Little Church.

The next day was on to Medicine Hat and Veiner Seniors' Centre where whist was played and the seniors were treated to lunch by the Medicine Hat club.

For Seniors

The seniors were taken on a guided tour of the city by the president of Medicine Hat's Chamber of Commerce.

The next stop on the tour was Brooks, where seniors attended a Legion bingo. Margaret Westlund was lucky to win the jackpot. They arrived home Sept. 22, tired but happy to be home again.

Moon declines in fourth quarter

By Joanne Benger

The moon is moving from third to fourth quarter and declining. It is in the wonderfully witty sign of Gemini so communicate in any way you can. Since the moon is waning, this is the time to tie up loose ends and complete projects. To this end, write, phone or visit.

Feeling like you're two people in one? Blame the twins of Gemini and develop your second line of interest.

Sept. 30 to Oct. 1 we will be in the fruitful water sign of cancer and with a waxing moon.

Family feelings and jealousies surface now. We tend to cling and become over-possessive of those we love. We also become compassionate and protective. This is the time to ask for help if you have a need others may not be aware of.

Thrift surfaces. Do some pre-Christmas shopping and you should get fine buys. Dollars have never stretched further. On the negative side, if you are selling you will find people too fussy. Calm down. Blame the moon and accept the critical shopper as inevitable now.

This is a fine time for fishing.

Oct. 2 and 3 will find us in the regal fire sign of Leo and still with a decreasing moon. If you butcher now, meat will shrink on the bone.

A Farm Wife's Almanac

by Joanne Benger

Enjoy this most sophisticated of signs with a formal dinner. Gold and royal purple will put you in tune with the moon.

Borrow money if that's your problem. Start a reducing diet if you want a slinkier look. Have your teeth filled and get a facial.

Cut winter fire wood and do home repairs. Insulate and fill cracks.

Oct. 4 and 5 will find us in the ultra-orderly sign of Virgo and still decreasing. Nights are at their darkest.

Tidy up drawers and closets. Sort through papers. Make lists. This is the time to put a bit of organization into your life by tidying up loose ends, finishing the unfinished and ending relationships or projects that no longer interest you but can't be kept dangling about forever.

Stock up with health foods, natural vitamins and supplements for your animals. Kick the junk food habit and start a healthy reducing diet.

Write and mail letters to old friends. Finish cutting your winter supply of fire wood.

Whose lucky week is it?

Gemini is the lucky sign with this week's luckiest birthdays falling between June 7 and 14 until Sept. 20 and between June 15 and 21 for the rest of the week. The lucky number to remember is seven.

Important days this week

The Day of Judgment was supposed to occur at 8 a.m. Oct. 3, 1538. To date it has not occurred.

Sept. 29 is St. Michael's Day. Eat goose if you can for the saying is, "He who eats goose on Michaelmas Day shall not want for money all the year."

Septic Service
Have your septic tank cleaned now, before trouble sets in. Tanks should be done every 3 years on the average.

Mountain position used in yoga

By Linda Giroux

Many yoga postures may begin with one basic position. The mountain pose is a basic standing posture.

Stand erect with the feet together, the heels and big toes touching each other. Tighten the knees and pull the knee caps up, contract the hips and pull up the muscles at the backs of the thighs.

Keep the stomach in and the chest forward, the spine stretched up and the neck straight. Have the weight evenly distributed on both feet. Stretch the hands up over the head, placing the palms together.

From the mountain standing pose, go on to practise mountain breathing. Exhale, bringing the palms down to in front of the chest, inhale, stretching the arms up overhead. Hold the breath, with the arms stretched up. Continue breathing for four or five complete breaths.

For another posture beginning with the mountain standing pose, try the angle pose. From the basic standing posture, spread the legs wide apart and turn the right foot to a 90 degree angle and the left foot slightly to the right.

Turn the upper body to look out over the right foot. Keep the hands pressed together above the head.

Bend the right knee so that the upper and lower leg form a right angle. Hold for at least 10 seconds, then repeat to the left side.

This pose strengthens the ankles, knees, hips and shoulders and tones the legs, hips, chest, back and neck. Balance and concentration are improved.

Operation successful

By Dr. Bob Young

Almost unheralded is the young German physician who, unable to talk his colleagues into helping him pass a catheter into his own heart, did the job himself. It was the first heart catheterization. He was successful and survived, only to receive a severe dressing down from his superiors.

This was the start of a diagnostic technique now in routine use around the world. The ability to pass a hollow tube into the innermost chambers of the heart has led to a much greater understanding of the function of this organ and has contributed greatly to the development of coronary artery and other heart surgery.

The catheters are the thickness of a thin pencil and are about two feet long. They are made of a plastic material impregnated with a substance that will show in an x-ray.

They are soft enough to bend at body temperature but firm enough not to collapse.

Most are pre-shaped at their tips—molded into a variety of angles and bends which allow easier threading through the convoluted route they must take. The tips are designed to rest in the part of the heart being studied.

The catheter is inserted into a vein or artery in the arm or groin. The choice depends upon the part of the heart that is the target. It is manipulated under x-ray visualization until it is in the correct spot.

Ram Steel issue takes new twist

By Sheila Pratt and Geoff White

The Ram Steel Affair, in which the provincial government came under heavy fire for an $8 million loan to a Red Deer steel company which has since gone into receivership, took another twist with a Regina-based company's offer to buy the plant.

Although opposition politicians warned the government risked losing $8 million of taxpayers' dollars, it now seems likely the Alberta Opportunity Company (AOC) will recover its loan under the deal proposed by Interprovincial Pipe and Steel Co. (IPSCO). But small investors, mainly from Red Deer, who sunk $6.75 million into Ram Steel, will lose their investment if the deal goes through.

And New Democratic Party Leader Grant Notley says the IPSCO deal raises more questions about possible political influence by the Tory government. The Alberta government which owns shares in IPSCO would not like to see AOC lose the largest loan in its history, says Notley.

The government initially came under attack for the Ram loan because it was approved after former Attorney-general Jim Foster lobbied Premier Peter Lougheed and two cabinet ministers, Small Business Minister Al Adair and Economic Development Minister Hugh Planche. Notley charged the government was bailing out an old Tory friend, Foster, who was a director and shareholder in the company and acting as its lawyer. The loan was approved during last fall's election.

Just six weeks after receiving the AOC money in January, Ram shut down production and laid off 70 employees and seven months later the company went into receivership.

IPSCO has offered to buy the plant and land for about $17.5 million, enough to cover the $8 million AOC loan and the $9 million loan with the Canadian Commercial Bank. But that leaves the shareholders with nothing.

Foster says the shareholders are trying to come up with a deal of their own which would salvage their investment. But that involves finding an outside party which is willing to put some money into the troubled company that faces an uncertain steel market in the near future. It would also have to convince the AOC and the bank to leave its money in place in a refinancing package, says Foster.

Meanwhile, Notley says the government must "Come clean on the question of possible political pressure on IPSCO to buy Ram. Notley points to the fact former Energy Minister Don Getty is chairman of IPSCO board of directors.

Adair, who is in charge of AOC, says the government's interest in IPSCO is a minor share of the company and denies there was any political involvement. The government owns 50 per cent of the Alberta Energy Company which holds a joint interest of 20 per cent of IPSCO with Nova Corp.

The issue is bound to erupt in the fall session of the legislature as Notley is determined to get answers to questions of political influence on IPSCO to salvage the investment by AOC and the CCB.

Government and Amoco blamed

By Jack Morrison

The Pembina Area Sour Gas Exposures Committee (PASGEC) released its submission to the Energy Resources Conservation Board regarding the Amoco Dome Brazeau uncontrolled flow Friday.

The two volume submission focuses on a number of areas including the cause of the blowout, methods taken to gain control of the well, the health effects of the blowout, effects on livestock, damage to and damage to property. The submission also makes recommendations regarding the impact of the blowout as well as locks at the communication with the public during the time of the blowout and the responsibilities of the authorities involved.

In the submission PASGEC places a large amount of the blame regarding lack of and inaccurate information passed on to local residents on the shoulders of both Amoco and the provincial government.

"The operator of the well, Amoco Canada Ltd., chose to minimize information passed on to local residents and distorted the quality of some information passed on.

"Government agencies simply echoed the comments of Amoco, referred questions to the company, or ignored concerns directed to them," the report stated.

The report further stated that communications with local residents during the blowout was either non-existent or poor. Little relevant information was made available about the event, during the event and what information was available was often contradictory.

Chamber takes another step

A pivotal meeting towards the formation of a Drayton Valley area chamber of commerce ended with further progress being made towards the goal by the appointment of a steering committee to approach members of the community to stand for election to a chamber executive.

Gordon Foster, Elmer Lesiwka, Gus Moody, Marty Prentice, Erwin Rendflesh and Stuart Adams will serve as members of the committee, which will also look into the past chambers and how they might affect the starting of the new one.

The Thursday gathering drew 20 people but it was pointed out that the total interest group is much larger.

Interim group Chairman Erwin Rendflesh cited lists made from each of the previous two meetings which indicate an overall attendance of about 40 people.

"Last time we were asking is the group large enough to start one," he said.

Discussion centred around the elements and goals necessary to form a chamber, especially in light of the failure of previous organizations.

A recapping of discussion from the last meeting showed a need for the organization to represent the community with the "common, social and civic well-being" in mind.

Debts incurred by past chambers were delegated to members of the steering committee who will establish the actual amounts outstanding. The corporate status of the chamber will also be determined and presented as information to the next general meeting.

The steering committee is scheduled to meet tomorrow with another general meeting to be planned once a list of nominees can be drawn up and elections called. Members of the committee hoped to be able to call another general meeting within a month.
